Spy Case Decision Goes to President

TRIAL BOARD IN 2-MINUTE FINAL SESSION

Findings and Sentences In Cases of 8 Saboteurs Sent to Roosevelt.

COURT KEEPS SILENCE

FDR Seen Making Thorough Study of Evidence Before Acting on Verdict.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The military commission which conducted the trial of the eight Nazi saboteurs held a two minute session today to inform the spies of their fate and then adjourned subject to the call of President Roosevelt.

Indications that sentences had been pronounced was given by seven army generals when the commission stated that it would not make known the verdict, leaving the announcement to President Roosevelt.

After the two minute meeting, at which the spies were present, Maj Gen. Frank R. M. McCoy, president of the commission issued the following statement.

"The commission reconvened at 11:05 a. m. The commission announced that the finding and sentence will not be announced by it. The commission adjourned at 11:07 to meet at the call of the president."

The commission's verdict was immediately sent to Mr. Roosevelt. At the White House it was indicated that the chief executive will make a thorough study of the whole case and probably will go over all of the evidence as well as the findings of the commission.

"It was predicated that Mr. Roosevelt will take some time to study the case, as has been his habit in the consideration of other capital cases.

The commission had been sitting in the case since July 8. The trial itself lasted 18 days and the seven generals deliberated for about two days. Then it called the prisoners defense and prosecution before it this morning. The session, according to the commission,

Aug. 13 & 14 Set As Sugar Sign-Up Days

Housewives To Register At Voting Precincts For Canning Needs.

Richland county housewives who will need more sugar for their late summer and fall canning will register Aug. 13 and 14 at their precinct voting places in all parts of the county, James Bailey, county rationing clerk, announced today.

The sugar registration will be handled for the first time by the county board of elections which will keep voting places open long enough after the Aug. 11 primary to handle the sugar sign-up in the county's 93 precincts.

Booths will be open from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. both registration days and sugar users will be urged to register in their home precincts at the places they go to vote.

Although a number of regular election booth clerks have volunteered to work during the two-day period, Bailey said other volunteers will be needed. Persons who may be able to serve the first or second registration day, or both days, were urged to notify Bailey at rationing headquarters, 1101 Farmers Bank building. A coupon for the convenience of volunteers will be found at the end of this article.

From four to six clerks and registrars will be on duty in each precinct and since there is an average of only 162 families in each precinct, election board officials said there should be no confusion or waiting in line.

Applicants for additional canning sugar will be asked a number of questions concerning their canning plans. Information that will be sought by registrars will include:

Name and address of applicant, names of other individuals in the family and serial numbers of their war ration books, number of quarts of fruit of all kinds canned in 1941, amount of Council To Pass on Pledge To Aid War Industry in City.

Adoption by city council of a resolution pledging the city's willingness to co-operate with Mansfield's five-man War Industry board in obtaining "a new defense plant or other industry of merit" will be asked at Tuesday evening's regular August session by George C. Kyle, member-at-large, who recently advocated an all-out effort by municipal agencies to accomplish this purpose.

When interviewed individually last week by the News-Journal virtually every member of council pledged his fullest support to such a move. Extension of all municipal facilities to accommodate such an industry is provided for in the Kyle resolution.

Other matters such as traffic signal service extension and minor street improvements are in the council hopper.

County Launches Most Intensive Scrap Iron Drive

The county's most intensive drive for scrap iron and rubber got under way this morning in the rural communities south of Mansfield under the direction of Carl L. Stough, Richland county salvage chairman.

Five truckers, paid by the federal government, started house-to-house calls, collecting scrap materials to go into the nation's war plants. The campaign will be extended northward in the county and then to Mansfield.

A quota of 30 pounds of scrap iron and steel per person per month for the next five months has been set for the county, Stough said. With a population of approximately 73,000, the county will have to produce 2,190,000 pounds of scrap a month to meet the quota.

Farmers and village and city residents will be asked by the solicitors to sell every available piece of scrap, including old automobiles, farm implements, tools, tires, burlap bags, rope, paper and rags. The scrap metal and rubber will be picked up by the five

They were driving to West Virginia to be married when their car sideswiped a truck north of Mt. Gilead on U. S. Route 42. At top is the truck, loaded with tires, which was turned over by the crash. MANSFIELDER SHIP VICTIM

A. A. Koller Perishes Aboard Vessel on Way Home From British Guiana.

First Mansfield victim of the sinking of merchant ships by enemy submarines is Arthur A. Koller, 46, of 217 South Franklin avenue, whose body arrived here today from New Orleans.

Details of the incident in which Koller lost his life were lacking today, but it is known that he was returning home from British Guiana where he was employed as a carpenter by the Elmhurst Contracting company of New York.

Saturday morning his widow, Naomi Koller, received a special delivery letter from the contracting company, notifying her that the body was in New Orleans and on its way home. Previously she had been notified her husband was missing, due to enemy action.

Whether he was drowned or met death by exposure or other causes, when his ship was torpedoed, could not be learned today. It was assumed the body was taken to New Orleans by a rescue ship.

An escort accompanying the body home from New Orleans was reported to have missed a train at Chattanooga, Tenn., and had not yet arrived here this morning. He is believed to have more information regarding Koller's death.

American Post In Iceland Has First Nazi Bomb Attack

(By International News Service)

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — Choosing an otherwise calm and peaceful Sunday morning, a single German war plane carried out the first aerial attack on Icelandic soil yesterday, it was officially announced today.

The objective was a United States military installation somewhere on the southeastern part of the island.

There were no casualties and only negligible damage.

An official communique describing the sudden attack, made after German planes had frequently soared over Iceland on reconnaissance flights, said:

"United States military authorities in Iceland announced today that a German Focke-Wulf machine-gunned and bombed a military installation in southeast Iceland Sunday morning.

"There were no casualties and damage is reported negligible."

The attack followed repeated flights by lone German aircraft in the vicinity of the objective, which lies in a remote section.

German reconnaissance planes have been seen over Iceland, site of a large American expeditionary force encampment, on previous occasions in the past. But this was the first officially-released instance of an actual bombing.

THREE YOUTHS HELD IN THEFTS

Former Inmates at B. I. S. at Lancaster Jailed; Police Quizzing Them.

Arrest of three juveniles, one a fugitive from the Boys Industrial school, Lancaster, likely will halt the wave of purse snatchings, thefts and home burglaries, in the opinion of Mansfield city detectives who took the trio into custody early Sunday.

Recovery of a radio stolen several nights ago from the home of City Fireman Charles Weaver, 57 East First street, was reported by Detectives Lee Remy, Howard L. Schuck and Herbert G. Palmer. Two of the youths, both described by police as "two-time losers" at the Industrial school, admitted the burglary.

Police said that the increase in purse snatchings and thefts started since the youngest boy, "a four-time loser," escaped from the institution June 5.

SOLDIER ALSO HURT

Couple on Way to W. Virginia at Time of Mishap, Picked Up Hitch-Hiker.

Driving to West Virginia to be married, a Cleveland man was killed early today and his fiancee was in General hospital with critical injuries suffered when their car sideswiped a truck north of Mt. Gilead on U. S. Route 42. Two others were injured in the crash.

Six other persons, four of them Mansfielders, received injuries in several other accidents reported by Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen over the weekend.

Killed was Richard Vargo, 36, driver of the car. His fiancee, Miss Elizabeth Mizaris, 32, a nurse at Cleveland clinic, was taken to Mansfield General hospital where she lay in a coma for more than five hours before regaining consciousness. Her condition is still critical.

Picked up in Ashland by the young couple, a Cleveland soldier, Robert Cottrell, 23 on leave from Scott Field, Ill., is recovering at General hospital from shock and cuts and bruises received in the accident.

The driver of the truck, James Hopkins, 29, of Akron, was not hurt but his companion, Bob Whitehurch, also of Akron, received an injured left ankle. He was treated at the hospital and released.

State highway patrolmen said that Hopkins told them the car was rounding a turn on the center line of the road. He pulled his truck to the right as far as possible but the vehicles sideswiped, he said.

The accident occurred in the village of Williamsport, about six miles north of Mt. Gilead about 3:30 a. m. this morning.

Red Defenders Tighten Lines Near Oil Fields

Germans Admit Counter-Attacks By Russians, Who Shoot Down Enemy Parachutists; Call Again For New Front.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(UP)—Strong Russian reinforcements, including Cossack cavalry and marines, landed on the Caucasian coast today and bent back the Germans' armored spearheads in a series of counter-assaults north of the vital Maikop oil fields, the Soviet high command reported.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's Russian offensive appeared today to be losing impetus against slowly tightening Russian defenses at the Don bend approach to Stalingrad and along the last rail line to the oil fields of the Caucasus as the Red army lashed back in a new show of strength.

Along the whole 300-mile arc from Kletskaya, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, to Kushchevka, 50 miles south of Rostov, the Russians still were on the defensive; but the strengthening of their stand was indicated by counterattacks which they reported hurled the Germans back with losses of 6,000 dead in a single day.

Don and Kuban Cossacks led the counterattacks in the critical salients of Kushchevka and Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, in the first intimation that the big garrison of the North Caucasus may have been thrown into the fight.

It was in this sector that the Germans made their deepest penetration into the northern Caucasus. The German high command said one of its tank columns was "nearing the upper course of the Kuban river."

How far the Nazis were from the northern curve of the river was not specified.

The Kuban rises in the western glaciers of Elborus, the highest peak in Europe, and curves to the north within 70 miles of Salsk before turning west to empty through a broad, marshy delta into the Black sea just south of the Strait of Kerch.

The Germans said the Russian rear guard was being forced south from the Yeya river which runs through Kushchevka to Taganrog bay, the northeastern arm of the Sea of Azov. The Berlin communique said other German forces which crossed the Don, south of Tsimlyansk were rolling the Russians back to the east, between the Sal and the Don rivers. This would indicate a German effort to widen their Caucasus wedge between Rostov and Tsimlyansk.

The German high command acknowledged that the Red army was striking back with fresh force in the Don bend and at Voronezh, on the exposed northern flank of the German offensive, but said the attacks were being withstood.

"In the areas of Kushchevka and Salsk," a Russian communique said, "our troops continued to fight severe defensive battles against the enemy. In several successful counter attacks Don and Kuban Cossack units killed 1,500 Germans."

The Moscow war bulletin gave

PARLEY: Churchill Flight To Talk With Stalin Reported

(By United Press)

LONDON—Reports were broadcast throughout Europe during the week-end that Prime Minister Winston Churchill had flown to Russia to discuss a second front with Premier Josef Stalin.

Stockholm News agency reports of the flight quoted Lisbon Vichy quoted rumors "current at the British legation at Berne," Switzerland, and Berlin quoted the Rome newspaper Popolo D'Italia, which in turn quoted Stockholm.

Rome embellished its version by reporting that Stalin had accused Churchill of betraying the Soviet Union by not opening a second front.

Berlin quoted the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter as reporting from London that Gen George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, had been named to command British and American second front forces.

Russian radios broadcast programs quoting demands for a second front by the public and newspapers in the United States and Britain. Russia mentioned a CIO-sponsored rally in New York, great mass meetings in Britain and demands by British labor unions for action now.

Moscow also broadcast an appeal made at a Russian athletic meeting yesterday to athletes of America and Britain to open a second front. It told of the odds against which Russia was fighting and said:

"There is no time to wait. Not only from the air must you scourge Hitlerite Germany. Let your tanks, artillery and infantry charge the enemy in the wake of your planes."

STRONGER: Japs Believed To Have Added To Buna Force

(By Associated Press)

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, —The possibility that the Japanese have reinforced their garrison at Buna was acknowledged by an Allied spokesman today as General MacArthur's headquarters reported a renewal of savage fighting in the New Guinea jungles midway between that enemy base and Port Moresby.

The communique announcing the jungle fighting declared Allied troops had routed Japanese outposts near Kokoda, 60 miles east of Port Moresby, and said Allied bombers had set fire to enemy supply dumps in that area.

It was the first reference to the existence of such supply dumps, and an Allied spokesman said it was not impossible the Japanese had been moving men and equipment in from Lae—some 165 miles north of Buna.

There have been no indications, however, that the original force which the Japanese landed July 22 in the Buna area—estimated at not more than 2,500 men—has been reinforced by sea, the spokesman said.

In addition to attacking the supply dumps at Kokoda, Allied heavy and medium bombers pounded enemy positions near Buna. Japanese fighters rose to intercept Allied planes and five of the enemy planes were shot down, General MacArthur's headquarters said. A twin-engined Japanese

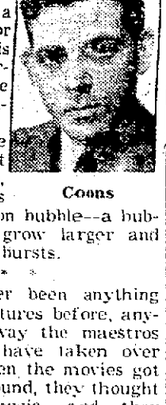
HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—The way things have been going in the movies, taking tutelage in dramatics to crash the movies is less effective than tooting a horn. That neighbor boy who drives you to a bad - neighbor policy with his trumpet - torture may be 1950's screen sensation.



Coons

This is the year of the great band bonanza, Hollywood's mammoth bassoon bubble—a bubble which will grow larger and rosier before it bursts.

THERE'S never been anything like it in pictures before, anything like the way the maestros and their men have taken over Hollywood. When the movies got their new toy, sound, they thought at once of music, and they brought out a few bands—Rudy Vallee's, Paul Whiteman's, Ted Lewis's, later Ben Bernie's. They came and went, some to come again.

Today it's anybody's jam session. They're all coming, and most of them have plans to stay or to return at intervals. They're the answer, so Hollywood has come to believe, to all of Hollywood's box-office uncertainties.

The studios are even handing out term contracts to some of the maestros. Glenn Miller played Glenn Miller so well, so unaffectedly, in "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Orchestra Wives" that 20th Century-Fox made certain he'd come again. Kay Kyser started this maestro-movie star combination at RKO, where he's done four pictures already.

You know they want band leaders when a studio starts looking for vehicles for them. The bands used to go along for the ride, now they're pulling the movie wagon. Harry James of the high trumpet is doing the musical sequences of "Springtime in the Rockies" at 28, and M-G-M already has a story ready for him which must wait until James's next road tour is done. The Zanuck lot is vehicle-hunting for Sammy Kaye because that outfit hit the groove for Sonja Henie's "Iceland."

At RKO Freddie Martin's hit in "Syncopation" brought him back to compete with Les Brown in "Sweet or Hot." Martin is the "sweet" and and Brown the "hot" of the combination. Brown being a youngster almost unknown out here but great on the juke boxes back east.

RKO knows already he'll be a picture hit, and you know how they know? Because Les Brown went over big at the Palladium. That's the mammoth dance hall which gives the best of the name bands night work while they're making movies by day. If the jitter-crowd there spreads the word, the band is "in."

How Give Up Car When She Didn't Know She Had One?

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—After the war production board asked Mrs. Joseph Baukneght of Cleveland if she would donate her automobile for scrap, a garage in suburban Shaker Heights presented her with a $120 storage bill.

All of this was very confusing to Mrs. Baukneght, who had not heard of her car since she reported it stolen about a year ago.

Investigation of records in the suburb showed the car had been recovered three days after being reported stolen, but no one had notified Mrs. Baukneght.

The storage bill has been reduced to $10, but Mrs. Baukneght still has not made up her mind what to do.

TREASURY PLEA FOR TAX BOOST DOOMED, BELIEF

Senate Finance Committee Expected to Reject Call For Change.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The senate finance committee today appeared ready to reject the treasury's plea that it boost the $6,271,000,000 house-approved tax bill to $8,700,000,000, and rush it to final passage by mid-September.

Some members indicated that they would oppose a sharp boost in the total on the theory that the house will begin work on a new bill soon after January, tuning it to the anticipated rise in the national income next year.

"I do not think that the bill will raise much more than $6,000,000,000 when it is passed," said Sen. Tom Connally (D) Texas, member of the finance committee. "After all, it will increase the federal tax bill to $23,000,000,000 and that is a lot of money. I rather think this is the disposition of the committee."

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) Mich., declared that it was much more important to pass a tax bill that will allow business to continue to function than it is to get any particular amount of money.

"Secretary Morgenthau's figures on taxes were good when he contemplated paying two-thirds of the war cost in taxes, but that has passed out of the picture," said Vandenberg. "Soon we will be paying only one-fifth of the cost in taxes. I don't think there is anything sacrosanct about an eight billion or any other figure."

Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., committee chairman, said he thought there was a desire to meet treasury recommendations but added that they would be met only if it can be done "consistent with sound policies."

The committee today was to hear pleas for rejection of the treasury's proposal to tax future issues of state and municipal bonds.

Witnesses slated to appear in opposition included Mayor Floyd Green, Columbus.

FINDS WAR AIDS BRITISH HEALTH

Ohio Doctor Says Civilians Thrive on Reduced Diet and Earlier Hours.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Privations of war have improved the national health of the British, Dr. Edward H. Wilson of Columbus maintained today following his arrival on a Pan-American clipper yesterday at LaGuardia field.

Dr. Wilson, in charge of the American hospital in Great Britain at Oxford university, said the reduced diet, early hours and the wearing of loose, well worn clothing apparently had a beneficial effect on the average Englishman. He added the privations endured by the British would be amazing to Americans.

Dr. Wilson said British medicine had made great advances in the treatment of wounds since the start of the war.

The British, he added, no longer are able to stuff themselves with rich foods, resulting in leaner figures, better color and more alert bearing. The benefits were apparent also in the speed with which the people recover from injuries, he said.

Dr. Wilson said approximately 85 per cent of the patients in the American hospital in Great Britain were members of the armed forces. The others are mostly civilians injured in air raids.

VETERAN SUB BUILDER TO TELL HOW TO SOLVE U-BOAT MENACE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Simon Lake, veteran submarine designer and builder, promised to lay before a senate military subcommittee today the solution of the U-boat menace.

Lake, who said he had been called before a committee that has been seeking to step up production of aerial fighters, declared that as one of the inventors of the modern submarine he knew "what the Axis nations can do with it."

"For 30 years," he said, "I have warned that battleships, cruisers, destroyers, patrol boats of any kind, even airplanes could not effectively stop its destructive toll of ships, their crews and cargoes.

"I say now that we have not yet seen the full fury of the submarines such as will probably descend upon us in the days to come.

"I have refrained from making public some of my plans, fearing our enemies would use them against us, but from information recently received and from evidence of enemy operations they are apparently using these methods and are planning to use them even more extensively. I feel the time has come to tell our people about them."

Two other experts were invited to testify before the subcommittee today as Senator McNary (R., Ore.) called for bold steps in starting to build big cargo planes in shipyards.

The committee chairman, Senator Lee (D., Okla.) said that later in the week, the committee hoped to hear from Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, and Donald M. Nelson, war production board chairman.

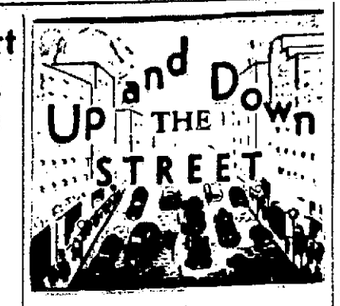
"You have to walk, anyway. Try and get Hubert to sleep!"



Taxpayers who don't get through work until 3 or 3:30 in the afternoon can get to the treasurer's office now in time to pay their taxes before the office closes. Treasurer Charles Payne has ordered that the office be kept open until 4 p. m., the closing time for other county offices. The treasurer's office for several years has closed at 3:30 p. m. because it usually takes longer for workers there to close the day's accounts and leave the building after the doors close.

Perhaps no young participant in the Children's theater production of "The Sleeping Beauty," Friday night, received more of a thrill out of appearing in the performance than nine-year-old Florence Ullrich, ballet student of Ethyl Battin. Florence's maternal grandmother had appeared in the role of the wicked fairy in a command performance given at the king's palace in Munich in 1878. Her grandmother was then 12 years of age and the occasion marked the annual appearance of a group of child actors at the palace. Florence is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ullrich, 124 Carpenter road, who returned from a vacation visit in Chicago, their former home, yesterday to see the performance.

TWO TESTIFY ON NEW PHASE OF TRANSPORT

Sub-Committee Hearings Are Aimed at Finding Means of Improving Shipping.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Two aeronautical experts—one a retired army officer, the other an aviation magazine publisher—appear before a senate sub-committee today to testify on the practicability of giant cargo-carrying airplanes in the war program.

Col. Hugh Knerr, retired, plans to propose that the nation immediately launch a program of constructing large cargo planes. He was in the army air corps from 1918 until his retirement in 1939, serving as chief of the general headquarters army air force from 1935 until 1938.

The other witness—William B. Ziff, is publisher of "Popular Aviation" magazine and author of a recently published book, "The Coming Battle of Germany."

Chairman Josh Lee, D., Okla., said that "both men are rated as worldwide experts on cargo planes and aeronautics, and we will be influenced by their testimony to a very large extent."

Lee's subcommittee is studying proposed legislation to establish a supply board which would order construction of the giant flying boats as a supplement to existing shipping facilities. The measure is sponsored jointly by Lee and Sen. Ed. C. Johnson (D., Colo.).

Lee said numerous army, navy and war production board officials would testify at future sessions of the subcommittee, with Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, army air force chief, scheduled later this week.

Others who may be called, Lee said, are WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Brig. Gen. Harold George, commander of the army air transport command.

Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon added his support to the cargo-carrying plane proposal. He said such a program should be pushed even if it means stopping production of merchant ships and certain types of combat planes.

Police Chief Domingo Martinez, however, quickly visited Frank to express official regrets and the press interpreted this as demonstrating that high Argentina authorities had been profoundly moved by the brutal attack.

CHAPTER XVIII

"I didn't know you were married," said Gordon.

"I'm not. She divorced me last year."

"Was your Audrey pretty?" asked Gordon, admiring the gorgeous golden case, "or just another gold mine?"

"Just another gold mine to me . . . She would have been an easy mark for one of your blackmail stunts. She has no guts. She'd have paid. She was a frill spotted by every lizard in those gilded sewers on 52nd street, and any good salesman could sell her phoney propositions."

"You didn't need money then. Why did you marry her?" asked Gordon.

"Who said I didn't need money? We lost the rich vein in the Double Jackpot the year after Laurie, my first wife died."

"Then it hasn't been all smooth sailing for you?"

"No."

"And you never loved this Audrey at all?"

"I told you once, I didn't. The only thing I loved about her was her money."

The next day Gordon was in Morley's room when Doctor Burns paid Morley another visit.

"Hello, Doc. Have you found out yet when I get out of this joint?"

"Nothing definite, Mr. Morley. It's that infection in your hand."

"You fellows like the hundred bucks a week this room costs me. I'm not a sucker," Morley growled, "infection my foot!"

"No," said the doctor seriously, "not your foot, your hand. Now lift your thumb and point it toward the ceiling."

Morley lay his hand, palm up, on the sheet. He concentrated on his thumb. His face hardened; his teeth were clinched. He cursed. The thumb moved slowly.

"You're just like a palm reader, Doctor Burns. What does my palm say?"

"Not too good," answered the doctor. "That's why I asked you to move your thumb. If you are able to abduct and rotate the thumb to oppose the fingers your medium nerve is entirely intact. Can you do it? . . . Try again."

"Sure," said Morley, "Watch."

They all watched; the thumb moved slowly, weakly, then flapped back nerveless.

"Damn it!" grunted Morley. "It's got to be okay, infection or no infection, because I'm leaving here soon."

"I hope so," said the doctor. "Air might help it. Take it out of the sling every hour or two." He left the room.

After Doctor Burns had gone Morley snapped his head around. "Say Brad, I want to see a specialist. That guy doesn't know 'a' from apples!" He looked worried. "A little cut in my hand! These doctors are a bunch of fakers. I'm getting out of here. I'll see someone good in New York."

His face was flushed. He glared down at the offending hand as though it were a snake.

"So you're going to New York? I thought you said Chicago?"

"Chicago first, then New York."

"I've got to beat it, my lunch hour is up, I'll see you if I can tonight," said Gordon as he left the room.

Morley lay back and tried to think himself out of his worriment. The phone next to him rang and he picked up the receiver. The operator told him to wait for a person-to-person long distance call from Long Island.

"Hello Governor!"

Morley was surprised to hear Oliver's voice.

"What the devil do you want? Anything wrong a Moonhollow?"

"Yes, plenty. I'm not there any more. Bad news, Clifford. Audrey just kicked me out."

"What do you mean — kicked out? What did you do?"

"I tried to date up her French maid. A peppy little trick that I took a fancy to . . . the dumb girl squealed."

"Couldn't you lie out of it, you damn fool?"

"No, that English louse, I told you about, Leslie Curtis, messed everything up for me. Now, Governor, what do you want to do?"

"I want to do?" Morley shouted. "Knock your block off. Listen, punk, I'll cut out your gizzard . . . Playing blind man's bluff with a French slut when there's important business to do. Get your job back, but if you can't, wait for me, at the hotel on Forty-third street. I'll be there in a week." He hung up with a bang.

Morley lay steeped in silent fury, lips drawn, jaw muscles bunched, beating his good hand into the pillow. It was about nine o'clock that night when his telephone rang again, another person-to-person call. This time it was from the Double Jackpot. It was Blackie, his engineer, calling.

"Bad news, boss," announced Blackie.

"Well, what is it?" growled Morley.

Morley listened as Blackie explained that the miners had found their poorest ore that week. Then the gruff voice added that there wasn't any money to pay the past week's salaries.

"I'll telephone the bank tomorrow and see what I can do about it, but I can't promise anything because I owe them $15,000 now; and it's overdue."

"The miners say they can take over the mine if they want to," the engineer said. "Some new union orders."

"Shoot the first man who tries it," shouted Morley.

Morley slammed down the receiver, stared grimly at the ceiling, pressed the buzzer by the side of the bed and asked Miss Landrigan to send him Brad Lewis.

"What's the matter, Cliff?" asked Gordon. "I was just going to bed."

"Get the cards and mix yourself a drink. I can't sleep."

"But it's late, and you know the head nurse will be going through the hall to see that everyone is asleep."

"When we hear her we'll put out the light," Morley answered. Gordon saw his tenseness, his nervous state, and acquiesced, feeling that he might get an opportunity to start Morley talking about what he was there to hear.

"What's worrying you?" asked Gordon.

"Too much to explain."

Gordon shuffled cards and dealt four apiece for Casino.

"This damn bandage feels too tight," said Morley fiercely. "I'm going to take it off."

"Shall I ring for the floor nurse?" asked Gordon solicitously.

"No. I'll until it myself. Doctor Burns said that air was good for it."

Morley unwound the bandage and looked at his hand. It was pale, bluish around the cut. "Infection, hell. All it needs is air and exercise. It needs red blood." He gulped a drink and picked up his cards.

There was the sound of conversation and approaching footsteps in the hall.

"Pull out the light, quick," whispered Morley. "That's the nurse coming this way. She looks in through the door only for a second. Don't get scared. She won't see you in the room."

Gordon snapped out the lights, leaving the room in blackness. They sat in silence.

As Gordon looked toward Morley through the intense darkness he saw something glowing faintly on the bed. The door opened slightly and, the nurse looked in, the strange glowing thing on Morley's bed, disappeared.

Then the nurse closed the door again, plunging the room into utter darkness, and Gordon watched the thing again glow faintly and assume a ghostly luminous form. He bent his head slowly toward it; his mouth grew hot and dry at the macabre, wondering what it was. Then a cold sweat broke out on his face as he sensed what he was looking at. It was Morley's hand! Clifford Morley had a phosphorescent hand!

Gordon sat there stiff and speechless. Down the corridor, the footsteps of the nurse grew fainter. Then complete silence. "Put up the light!" ordered Morley. "She's gone for the night." Gordon's knees weakened as he rose to flick it on.

In the mirror he saw his face, lined and frightened by the shock of what he had just seen. He kept looking in the mirror.

"What the devil's wrong with you?" asked Morley.

"I just saw something so strange I can't believe my own eyes. I never saw anything like it before in my life."

"What was it? A ghost?" Morley laughed.

"I'll show it to you."

Gordon shoved the bureau toward the bed and put Morley's hand in front of the mirror. Then Gordon said, "Now don't move your hand; hold it there while I put the light out, and watch it in the mirror." He plunged the room into dense darkness and stood waiting beside Morley. In the mirror the hand showed, gleaming evilly, even more luminous than before.

Jumbled words came from Morley's lips as he saw it.

"Holy God!" he exclaimed.

Gordon turned on the light. Morley fell back in bed gasping, beads of perspiration trickling down his grey face. He reached for the whiskey and gulped a stiff drink, part of it ran down his chin.

"Brad, for God's sake, what was it?"

"I don't know!"

"Call the doctor . . ."

"What for?"

"I want to find out! I must know what this is!"

"He won't tell you the truth, but I might be able to."

"How?"

"They keep a history of every case in the hospital in files in the main office. I'll go downstairs and look at yours."

Morley listened like a sick child, and Gordon felt the depth of helplessness and horror that had now swamped him.

"Bring the report up here," Morley muttered.

"I don't think I can!"

"You've got to," said Morley nervously. "You hear? You've got to!"

Gordon tiptoed down the stairway at the end of the hall. The corridor of the first floor was dim under night lights; the face of the desk nurse was hidden by a book.

He turned the knob of the file office door. The room was lit by a desk lamp; the files were closed. He ran his fingers to the "M's," came to the name "Clifford Morley," and slipped the card out of its celluloid holders, then he heard the sound of footsteps in the hall. He shoved the card into his jacket pocket, leaned against the wall until a shadow passed the glass partition. Then he left the office and hurried up to Morley's room.

Morley and Gordon read the report together.

The short, typed paragraph mentioned carcinoma of the skin caused by alpha rays, and radium present in the bones of the right hand diagnosis by specialist recommended; "amputation advised."

It did not take long for the horrible meaning of the words to penetrate Morley's mind. The blood rushed swiftly to his head, reddening his face; his temples throbbed violently. His heart pounded, pounded, pounded. "Amputation of his right hand advised!" As though he had not read correctly, as though he had thought his eyes deceived him: "Read that to me, Lewis My eyes seem blurred," he demanded huskily.

"Immediate amputation of the right hand advised." Gordon paused, looked at Morley, "You have radium poisoning in that hand, Morley. How did you get it?"

"Radium!" he gasped to himself despairingly. "Radium!"

Gordon stayed with him most of the night Morley lay, silent, staring vacantly at the ceiling, his eyes closed in fitful thought. Gordon couldn't get him to say another word.

Sees New Role For Plastics In Post-War World

RAVENNA — (INS) — Declaring post-war days will find plastics playing an important part in American industrial life, W. B. Fageol, jr., Kent Twin Coach company executive, also asserted synthetic rubber will occupy a prominent place following the present conflict.

"I look for synthetic rubber tires that will wear twice or three times as long as present day tires," Fageol said. "I also believe rubber will supplant steel for the springs used in cars."

Plastics will serve as a substitute for steel in automobiles, according to Fageol, as well as a replacement for glass and wood.

THIS SHOULD be a very promising day, judging by the benefic transits of the moon and the mutual aspects as well. There should be much accomplished in the direction of attaining cherished goals and desires, with opportunities for increasing the finances and credit and enhancing personal prestige and popularity. However, there may be pitfalls to guard against.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a productive and pleasant year, in which all business as well as personal associations prove profitable as well as happy, providing there are no long chances taken.

A child born on this day should be versatile and efficient, with lofty ambitions, although it may be led into dubious transactions.

Wayward Youths Have Been Aided By Special Court

(By United Press)

SEATTLE—Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Resources Planning Board and uncle of President Roosevelt, told Seattle residents he believed the prosecution of offensive warfare in Alaska and the later commercial development of the territory required "five or six accesses from the United States."

Delano was in Seattle to confer with U. S. army engineers on the opening of another highway or possibly railroad from Central British Columbia highway and railheads.

He said the development of alternate routes would serve to quiet criticism now being directed at the choice of the inner, or "c," route for the Alaska highway, now being built north of Dawson City, B. C., by the army engineers and the U. S. Public Road Administration.

It has been changed in Congress that the inside route is impossible and never will serve to open up Alaska the way a highway would through the Rocky Mountain trench north of Prince George, B. C.

Delano said he had no criticism to offer concerning the "c" route and believes it is necessary to the defense of Alaska to join by road the several airports in northern British Columbia and the Yukon territory.

Delano traveled British Columbia by train and air, and said he was impressed by the so-called Rocky Mountain Trench, a natural depression which runs from Alaska to northern Montana without many breaks and which he thinks would be a natural roadbed for another railroad or highway

"I didn't know you were married," said Gordon.

"I'm not. She divorced me last year."

"Was your Audrey pretty?" asked Gordon, admiring the gorgeous golden case, "or just another gold mine?"

"Just another gold mine to me . . . She would have been an easy mark for one of your blackmail stunts. She has no guts. She'd have paid. She was a frill spotted by every lizard in those gilded sewers on 52nd street, and any good salesman could sell her phoney propositions."

"You didn't need money then. Why did you marry her?" asked Gordon.

"Who said I didn't need money? We lost the rich vein in the Double Jackpot the year after Laurie, my first wife died."

"Then it hasn't been all smooth sailing for you?"

"No."

"And you never loved this Audrey at all?"

"I told you once, I didn't. The only thing I loved about her was her money."

* * *

The next day Gordon was in Morley's room when Doctor Burns paid Morley another visit.

"Hello, Doc. Have you found out yet when I get out of this joint?"

"Nothing definite, Mr. Morley. It's that infection in your hand."

"You fellows like the hundred bucks a week this room costs me. I'm not a sucker," Morley growled, "infection my foot!"

"No," said the doctor seriously, "not your foot, your hand. Now lift your thumb and point it toward the ceiling."

Morley lay his hand, palm up, on the sheet. He concentrated on his thumb. His face hardened; his teeth were clinched. He cursed. The thumb moved slowly.

"You're just like a palm reader, Doctor Burns. What does my palm say?"

"Not too good," answered the doctor. "That's why I asked you to move your thumb. If you are able to abduct and rotate the thumb to oppose the fingers your medium nerve is entirely intact. Can you do it? . . . Try again."

"Sure," said Morley, "Watch."

They all watched; the thumb moved slowly, weakly, then flapped back nerveless.

"Damn it!" grunted Morley. "It's got to be okay, infection or no infection, because I'm leaving here soon."

"I hope so," said the doctor. "Air might help it. Take it out of the sling every hour or two." He left the room.

After Doctor Burns had gone Morley snapped his head around. "Say Brad, I want to see a specialist. That guy doesn't know 'a' from apples!" He looked worried. "A little cut in my hand! These doctors are a bunch of fakers. I'm getting out of here. I'll see someone good in New York."

His face was flushed. He glared down at the offending hand as though it were a snake.

"So you're going to New York? I thought you said Chicago?"

"Chicago first, then New York."

"I've got to beat it, my lunch hour is up, I'll see you if I can tonight," said Gordon as he left the room.

* * *

Morley lay back and tried to think himself out of his worriment. The phone next to him rang and he picked up the receiver. The operator told him to wait for a person-to-person long distance call from Long Island.

"Hello Governor!"

Morley was surprised to hear Oliver's voice.

"What the devil do you want? Anything wrong a Moonhollow?"

"Yes, plenty. I'm not there any more. Bad news, Clifford. Audrey just kicked me out."

"What do you mean — kicked out? What did you do?"

"I tried to date up her French maid. A peppy little trick that I took a fancy to . . . the dumb girl squealed."

"Couldn't you lie out of it, you damn fool?"

"No, that English louse, I told you about, Leslie Curtis, messed everything up for me. Now, Governor, what do you want to do?"

"I want to do?" Morley shouted. "Knock your block off. Listen, punk, I'll cut out your gizzard . . . Playing blind man's bluff with a French slut when there's important business to do. Get your job back, but if you can't, wait for me, at the hotel on Forty-third street. I'll be there in a week." He hung up with a bang.

Morley lay steeped in silent fury, lips drawn, jaw muscles bunched, beating his good hand into the pillow. It was about nine o'clock that night when his telephone rang again, another person-to-person call. This time it was from the Double Jackpot. It was Blackie, his engineer, calling.

"Bad news, boss," announced Blackie.

"Well, what is it?" growled Morley.

Morley listened as Blackie explained that the miners had found their poorest ore that week.

Then the gruff voice added that there wasn't any money to pay the past week's salaries.

"I'll telephone the bank tomorrow and see what I can do about it, but I can't promise anything because I owe them $15,000 now; and it's overdue."

"The miners say they can take over the mine if they want to," the engineer said. "Some new union orders."

"Shoot the first man who tries it," shouted Morley.

Morley slammed down the receiver, stared grimly at the ceiling, pressed the buzzer by the side of the bed and asked Miss Landrigan to send him Brad Lewis.

"What's the matter, Cliff?" asked Gordon. "I was just going to bed."

"Get the cards and mix yourself a drink. I can't sleep."

"But it's late, and you know the head nurse will be going through the hall to see that everyone is asleep."

"When we hear her we'll put out the light," Morley answered. Gordon saw his tenseness, his nervous state, and acquiesced, feeling that he might get an opportunity to start Morley talking about what he was there to hear.

"What's worrying you?" asked Gordon.

"Too much to explain."

Gordon shuffled cards and dealt four apiece for Casino.

"This damn bandage feels too tight," said Morley fiercely. "I'm going to take it off."

"Shall I ring for the floor nurse?" asked Gordon solicitously.

"No. I'll until it myself. Doctor Burns said that air was good for it."

Morley unwound the bandage and looked at his hand. It was pale, bluish around the cut. "Infection, hell. All it needs is air and exercise. It needs red blood." He gulped a drink and picked up his cards.

There was the sound of conversation and approaching footsteps in the hall.

"Pull out the light, quick," whispered Morley. "That's the nurse coming this way. She looks in through the door only for a second. Don't get scared. She won't see you in the room."

Gordon snapped out the lights, leaving the room in blackness. They sat in silence.

As Gordon looked toward Morley through the intense darkness he saw something glowing faintly on the bed. The door opened slightly and, the nurse looked in, the strange glowing thing on Morley's bed, disappeared.

Then the nurse closed the door again, plunging the room into utter darkness, and Gordon watched the thing again glow faintly and assume a ghostly luminous form. He bent his head slowly toward it; his mouth grew hot and dry at the macabre, wondering what it was. Then a cold sweat broke out on his face as he sensed what he was looking at. It was Morley's hand! Clifford Morley had a phosphorescent hand!

Gordon sat there stiff and speechless. Down the corridor, the footsteps of the nurse grew fainter. Then complete silence. "Put up the light!" ordered Morley. "She's gone for the night." Gordon's knees weakened as he rose to flick it on.

In the mirror he saw his face, lined and frightened by the shock of what he had just seen. He kept looking in the mirror.

"What the devil's wrong with you?" asked Morley.

"I just saw something so strange I can't believe my own eyes. I never saw anything like it before in my life."

"What was it? A ghost?" Morley laughed.

"I'll show it to you."

Gordon shoved the bureau toward the bed and put Morley's hand in front of the mirror. Then Gordon said, "Now don't move your hand; hold it there while I put the light out, and watch it in the mirror." He plunged the room into dense darkness and stood waiting beside Morley. In the mirror the hand showed, gleaming evilly, even more luminous than before.

Jumbled words came from Morley's lips as he saw it.

"Holy God!" he exclaimed.

Gordon turned on the light. Morley fell back in bed gasping, beads of perspiration trickling down his grey face. He reached for the whiskey and gulped a stiff drink, part of it ran down his chin.

"Brad, for God's sake, what was it?"

"I don't know!"

"Call the doctor . . ."

"What for?"

"I want to find out! I must know what this is!"

"He won't tell you the truth, but I might be able to."

"How?"

"They keep a history of every case in the hospital in files in the main office. I'll go downstairs and look at yours."

Morley listened like a sick child, and Gordon felt the depth of helplessness and horror that had now swamped him.

"Bring the report up here," Morley muttered.

"I don't think I can!"

"You've got to," said Morley nervously. "You hear? You've got to!"

Gordon tiptoed down the stairway at the end of the hall. The corridor of the first floor was dim under night lights; the face of the desk nurse was hidden by a book.

He turned the knob of the file office door. The room was lit by a desk lamp; the files were closed. He ran his fingers to the "M's," came to the name "Clifford Morley," and slipped the card out of its celluloid holders, then he heard the sound of footsteps in the hall. He shoved the card into his jacket pocket, leaned against the wall until a shadow passed the glass partition. Then he left the office and hurried up to Morley's room.

Morley and Gordon read the report together.

The short, typed paragraph mentioned carcinoma of the skin caused by alpha rays, and radium present in the bones of the right hand diagnosis by specialist recommended; "amputation advised."

It did not take long for the horrible meaning of the words to penetrate Morley's mind. The blood rushed swiftly to his head, reddening his face; his temples throbbed violently. His heart pounded, pounded, pounded. "Amputation of his right hand advised!" As though he had not read correctly, as though he had thought his eyes deceived him: "Read that to me, Lewis. My eyes seem blurred," he demanded huskily.

"Immediate amputation of the right hand advised." Gordon paused, looked at Morley, "You have radium poisoning in that hand, Morley. How did you get it?"

"Radium!" he gasped to himself despairingly. "Radium!"

Gordon stayed with him most of the night. Morley lay silent, staring vacantly at the ceiling, his eyes closed in fitful thought. Gordon couldn't get him to say another word.

Wayward Youths Have Been Aided By Special Court

(By United Press)

SEATTLE—Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Resources Planning Board and uncle of President Roosevelt, told Seattle residents he believed the prosecution of offensive warfare in Alaska and the later commercial development of the territory required "five or six accesses from the United States."

Delano was in Seattle to confer with U. S army engineers on the opening of another highway or possibly railroad from Central British Columbia highway and railheads.

He said the development of alternate routes would serve to quiet criticism now being directed at the choice of the inner, or "c," route for the Alaska highway, now being built north of Dawson City, B. C., by the army engineers and the U. S. Public Road Administration.

It has been changed in Congress that the inside route is impossible and never will serve to open up Alaska the way a highway would through the Rocky Mountain trench north of Prince George, B. C.

Delano said he had no criticism to offer concerning the "c" route and believes it is necessary to the defense of Alaska to join by road the several airports in northern British Columbia and the Yukon territory.

Delano traveled British Columbia by train and air, and said he was impressed by the so-called Rocky Mountain Trench, a natural depression which runs from Alaska to northern Montana without many breaks and which he thinks would be a natural roadbed for another railroad or highway.

Sees New Role For Plastics In Post-War World

RAVENNA — (INS) — Declaring post-war days will find plastics playing an important part in American industrial life, W. B. Fageol, jr., Kent Twin Coach company executive, also asserted synthetic rubber will occupy a prominent place following the present conflict.

"I look for synthetic rubber tires that will wear twice or three times as long as present day tires," Fageol said. "I also believe rubber will supplant steel for the springs used in cars."

Plastics will serve as a substitute for steel in automobiles, according to Fageol, as well as a replacement for glass and wood.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, August 4.

THIS SHOULD be a very promising day, judging by the benefic transits of the moon and the mutual aspects as well. There should be much accomplished in the direction of attaining cherished goals and desires, with opportunities for increasing the finances and credit and enhancing personal prestige and popularity. However, there may be pitfalls to guard against.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a productive and pleasant year, in which all business as well as personal associations prove profitable as well as happy, providing there are no long chances taken.

A child born on this day should be versatile and efficient, with lofty ambitions, although it may be led into dubious transactions.

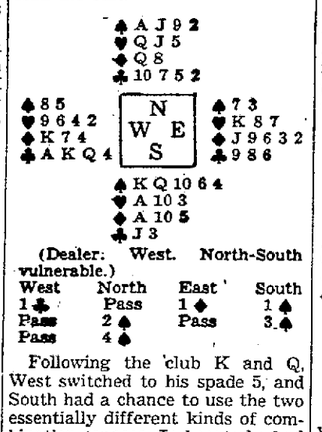
"The Authority on Authorities"

"COMBINATION" TENACES

Non-touching honors which are in the same hand are usually called tenaces, as something to hold and "lead toward" rather than something to lead or "lead from." When they are in opposite hands, such as declarer's and dummy, or in the hands of the two defenders, veterans describe such combinations as "combination tenaces." Sometimes a player can profitably lead the lower honor or honors of such combinations himself, toward the higher honor or honors. In other cases, however, the combinations develop their potential only when the opponents lead the suit.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	1♦	1♠
Pass	2♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠

Following the club K and Q, West switched to his spade 5, and South had a chance to use the two essentially different kinds of combination tenaces. In hearts he had the sort which he might profitably lead himself, since he held several lower honors in sequence in the dummy. In diamonds he had the kind which possessed no potential value unless the defenders could be forced to lead the suit. So he planned accordingly.

The third trick was taken by the spade A and the club 2 led, to get East out of the suit so that West would be the only one able later to win a club trick. He ruffed it with the spade K, led the spade 6 to the 9 and brought the heart Q through. East covered the heart J with the K, and the A won, then the 10. The spade 10 to the J enabled him to lead the club 10 and discard on it the diamond 5. West had to win this with the A.

If West now led a heart, dummy could ruff while South discarded his last losing diamond. Leading a diamond was just as bad, as the guarded Q in dummy won his small card, the A being ready for the twelfth trick and a spade for the thirteenth. If West had led the diamond K, the A would have won and the Q would have been good for the twelfth trick. As South played, West had no alternatives except harmful ones.

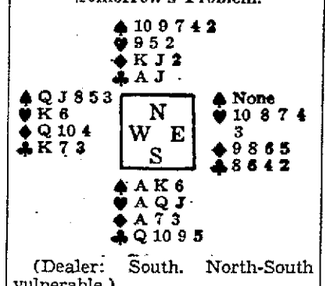
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If West overcalls South's 1-Club on this deal with 1-Spade, what should North do?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

THE PRINCESS Olina let her eyes sweep the restaurant with her old royally indifferent scrutiny.

"He is not here yet," she said softly. Then she caught her breath. "But he's just coming now."

"Then he's going for his usual table," Mary commented. "Look over there, Auntie Madge, at the table under that queer foreign clock. And if he doesn't look like old Father Time himself, then I'm a cactus plant or a burdock."

For the man limping down the aisle as if the victim of an accident or rheumatism, was unique in his long, snow-white beard and thick, curling white hair. He was apparently about sixty years of age and feeble.

"That man is not old," I murmured finally. "He is distinctly a young man, but disguised."

"What did I tell you, Lina?"

Mary turned to Olina with an air of triumph as I made my pronounceemnt.

Olina's voice, though deferential, held a note of stubbornness as she said, "I'm sorry, Auntie Madge, to appear to flout your opinion, but I just can't believe he's young. Look at that hair and beard!"

"Look!" Mary said beneath her breath. "He's going away."

Olina to Watch.

The man had tipped his chair against the table and, after a word to the waiter who came to take his order, had hurried away.

"He said," Mary announced, "that he'll be back in ten minutes, so I'm going to work on the notes I'm making. Lina, tip me off if either Steve or the old man heaves in sight."

"I'll watch carefully," Olina said, and the casual lightness in her voice jarred me a bit and I could not help feeling vaguely uneasy at the old man's departure from the restaurant. Was he perhaps in league with the gangsters, and even now reporting to them?

I was relieved indeed to see two of my father's men in evening clothes enter the restaurant and take a table opposite ours.

Steve arrived and the old man came back, both within ten minutes, and I settled down to a close but furtive study of the apparently old man.

Makes Himself Conspicuous.

That his interest in beautiful young women was not that of either a senile old man or a flamboyant young one I saw at once, as had Mary.

What intrigued me most was his evident determination to have everybody in the place notice and remember him.

He was making himself conspicuous in numberless ways. First he gave his order in a loud voice, asking for viands not on the menu, then he quarreled with the waiter.

That Stephen Redfield at last had noticed him I realized when he said sharply:

"Does any of you know that old chap? He's watching you constantly under that show he's staging."

Union Religious Rites Held as Numerous Families Gather For Annual Picnics.

GALION—Closing a day of picnics and reunions at Heise park Sunday, Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church, conducted the union services held there at 7 p. m.

Fifteen reunions kept park officials busy throughout the day.

One of the largest family reunions held at Heise park Sunday was that of the Neumann-Dinkel families. It was the 39th annual gathering, and was attended by 110 relatives from Bucyrus, Nevada, Crestline, Galion, Cleveland, Sulphur Springs, Shelby, Marion, Mansfield, Lexington, Monroeville, and Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nine boys of the family were reported to be in the armed forces. John Striker of Sulphur Springs, was elected president for next year; Elmer Neumann of Galion, vice president; Mrs. Lester Eichhord of Galion, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Clara Redmon of Galion, program chairman; Mrs. Donald Yochem of Galion, entertainment chairman. It was voted to hold next year's reunion at the same time and the same place. A ball game provided entertainment during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sharrock and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Harding of Galion were in charge of arrangements for the Cole-Mitchell reunion which was held Sunday at Heise park. James Hanlon presided, while Mrs. Roy Sharrock served as secretary during the business session. There were 45 relatives present for this 13th annual gathering, representing Bucyrus, Blooming Grove, Galion, and North Woodbury. They chose to return to the park for their 1943 reunion.

Fifty relatives gathered Sunday for the 11th annual reunion of the Philip Heilman family, held at Heise park. Towns represented were Youngstown, Girard, Bucyrus, Elmore, Galion, and Temperance, Mich.

Mrs. A. L. Geiger of Galion reported family happenings when the descendants of Dr. J. H. Heilman met Sunday at Heise park for their 14th annual reunion. As this year's president she presided for the business meeting at which time the following officers were chosen: Cloyd Heilman of Cleveland, president; Carl Heilman of Mansfield, vice president; Mrs. Norwood Keller of Galion, secretary-treasurer.

The group decided to meet in 1943 at the same place on the same Sunday in August. Sixty relatives were present from Cleveland, Marion, Martel, Mansfield, Waynesfield, Bucyrus, and Galion.

Committees appointed were: program, Mrs. Val Hopkins of Marion, Mrs. Carl Heilman of Mansfield, and Mrs. Alvin Hoover of Bucyrus; table service, Mrs. A. L. Geiger and Mrs. C. C. Goldsmith, both of Galion.

Westerville will be the site of the 1943 reunion of the Dixon family it was decided when they met Sunday at Heise park for their 11th annual gathering. Mrs. Cora Moore of Galena, 75, was the oldest relative attending the reunion which brought 30 relatives from Marion, Galena, Iberia, Westerville, Sunbury, and Loudonville. Ray Dixon, of Sunbury, was elected president; Mrs. Grover Dixon, of Iberia, secretary. The date of the 1943 reunion will be announced at a later date.

The 12th annual reunion of the descendants of John Beck brought 60 guests to Heise park on Sunday. They represented the following towns: Crestline, Galion, Akron, Kent, Mansfield and Leesville.

Sherman Schwarer, of West Liberty, was elected next year's president when the Schwarer family reunion chose Heise park for their meeting place Sunday. Thelma Derfler of Galion was elected secretary, and E. Weaver of Crestline, treasurer.

Eighty relatives were present for the 28th annual gathering, coming from Sycamore, Crestline, Mansfield, Bucyrus, Galion, Plymouth, Tiro, and West Liberty. The same place and the same Sunday in August were decided for the 1943 reunion.

A varied program featured the afternoon's social hours when 30 relatives of the Smart and Orr family met Sunday at Heise park for their 19th annual reunion. They represented the towns of Perrysville, Lucas, Bucyrus, Mansfield, and Galion.

Nearly 40 were present to celebrate the 20th annual gathering of the Haag family Sunday at Heise park. The reunion brought guests from Shelby, Crestline, Galion, St. James, and Akron.

The fourth annual reunion of the Henry family brought 60 guests from Fremont, Cardington, Mansfield, Shelby, Galion and Ontario, when they met Sunday at Heise Park. During the business meeting it was decided to meet next year the first Sunday in August at the Park. Elected as officers for 1943 were Clayton Henry of Mansfield, president; Bryan Henry of Shelby, vice president; Mary Henry of Ontario, as secretary-treasurer.

Heise Park will be the site again next year for the annual reunion of the F. M. Curren family, it was decided when they 50 relatives attended the 6th annual gathering at the park Sunday afternoon. The first Sunday in August was chosen for the 1943 date. Officers elected included: president, Mrs. Fred Cutler, of Galion; vice president, M. M. Patterson, of Galion; secretary-treasurer, Iris Worline, of Westfield. Guests were present from Marion, Marengo, Westfield, Fulton and Galion.

Despite the war which is causing many families to have fewer in attendance at their reunions, the Philip Malo family had a record attendance Sunday at Heise park, when 70 were present for the 22nd annual meeting. Relatives were here from Marion, Galion, Mansfield, Ashland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Chillicothe and Tulsa, Okla.

The family reported one birth during the past year, and the marriage of William Green of Marion, to Colomba Ellen Carol, of Mineola, Long Island, N. Y. During the business session Warren Malo of Ashland was elected president, and Mrs. Warren Malo, secretary-treasurer. Games were enjoyed during the afternoon. No definite place was decided upon for next year's gathering but it will be held on the same Sunday in August.

Because of the war, plans for next year's gathering of the Daniel Kehrer family are indefinite. There were 40 relatives present when the group met at Heise park here for the 11th annual reunion Sunday. They came from Columbus, Galion, Bucyrus, Whetstone and Martel. Officers chosen included Clinton Kehrer of Galion, president; Mrs. A. C. Kehrer of Galion, secretary-treasurer.

Retaining the same officers for another year when election was held after the noon-day picnic Sunday, descendants of Mathias and Phillip Fabian held their 13th annual reunion at Heise park. Joseph Fabian of Galion will continue to serve as president; Lee Dobbins, of Cleveland, as vice-president, and Mrs. Danel Miller of Galion as secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Dobbins and Mrs. Ed Fabian of Elyria were in charge of the afternoon's entertainment, which was enjoyed by the 50 relatives from Cleveland, Columbus, Marion, Ashtabula, Tiffin, Elyria, Fairview Village, and Galion.

The 37th annual reunion of the John and Rachel Garverick family was held Sunday at Heise park with 45 relatives present from Galion, Lexington, Williamsport, Iberia, West Point, Marion and Mansfield. The following officers were elected: president, Ira Garverick of Lexington; vice-president, Edward Garverick of Galion, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Newcomer of Lexington. The group decided to return to the park next year for the reunion which will be held the first Sunday in August.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

There are, without doubt, many better golfers in this fair city than J. B. Moke, but a more rabid links larruper than the superintendent of Mansfield school buildings would be hard to find.

Coolridge golfers still are chuckling about the time Moke drove up to the clubhouse, jumped out of his car, dashed to the first tee, and said to the foursome he found limbering up there:

"Do you boys mind if I play through? My wife's sick."

And then raced around the course in record time, to come back and find he'd left the motor of his car running.

But Fred Huntsman, Coolridge manager, tells the best one on Moke.

Fred says he was about ready to close up one rainy evening this spring when Moke came through the front door. They sat and chatted about half an hour before Moke said: "You know why I came out here don't you?"

"I wouldn't know why anyone would come out on a day like this," said Huntsman.

"I came out to play golf and that's what I'm going to do," declared Moke, and, donning a golfing rain cape, he started for the first tee.

* * *

It was some time later that Moke came back in the clubhouse, dripping wet, but beaming from here to there.

"This is ideal weather for golf," he exclaimed.

"I just sank a 75-yard approach on No. 3 for a deuce. . . . Ideal weather for golf!"

Carl Russell of Golden-Russell says this column and the Coolridge management misinformed the people some time ago when we said the only hole-in-one at Coolridge had been shot by Vert Hunter back in the days when the Coolridge par-three holes were short enough for aces.

"It was shortly after Coolridge opened, and shortly after I first started playing golf," Russell recalls.

"Number Two at that time was a short iron shot, but I didn't know that. So I used a spoon, and even then landed short of the green. But it rolled up and into the cup.

"And for that masterstroke I got enough free golf balls, gingerale and paraphernalia to last me all season."

* * *

"That was the funniest feeling I ever had in my life," says Pete Zimmerman, "when that tee-shot on No. 6 at Coolridge went in the can the other day.

"For a minute, there, I thought I was going to faint."

And who would have blamed him if he had passed out right then and there? Many a good man has taken the count from a much milder jolt than that.

Heady medicine, these aces. So I'm told.

Dodgers Mix With Old Foe

Open 'Crushial' Series With Hated Giants.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE Brooklyn Dodgers tangle with their hecklers from Harlem, the New York Giants, this evening in a contest that has generated more excitement in Gotham than any baseball battle since the last world series.

* * *

This interborough brawl was just another Monday ball game when the schedule was drawn months ago but now it's an important struggle with army relief the principal beneficiary.

When the two National league rivals played for navy relief in the Dodgers' park in May they took in about $60,000, a mark none of the other teams has touched. This time, with everybody who goes through the gates buying a ticket and many others purchasing ducats without going to the game, officials won't be satisfied with anything less than $100,000.

The extra special attraction will be Van Lingle Mungo, new addition to the Giants' pitching staff, hurling against the Dodgers, whose uniform he wore when he was the terror of the majors not so many years ago. Whitlow Wyatt will be Brooklyn's starting pitcher.

The Giants helped the Dodgers preserve their nine-game lead yesterday by splitting a doubleheader with the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, which is all the Dodgers could do with the Chicago Cubs.

It took the Dodgers ten innings to turn back the Cubs, 5-4, in the first game. In the second, Claude Passeau pitched the Cubs to a 7-6 triumph.

Carl Hubbell pitched the Giants to a 7-2 decision over the Cardinals for his fifth straight win as Mel Ott blasted two home runs, one with the bases loaded. Then Mort Cooper tossed a four-hitter at the Giants and the Cards won, 3-2.

The Cincinnati Reds cling to their one-game third-place margin over the Giants by splitting with the Boston Braves. Al Javery blanked the Reds 7-0 on five hits in the first game, but Cincinnati took the second, 4-2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-2 and 3-2, and hopped over the Cubs into fifth place.

In the American league, the New York Yankees downed the St. Louis Browns twice, 4-2 and 10-0, and stretched their lead to 12½ games over the Cleveland Indians, who wrested second place from the Boston Red Sox with the help of the Detroit Tigers.

The Indians nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-4 and 4-2.

The Detroit Tigers knocked the Boston Red Sox into third place by four percentage points, taking the first game, 8-4, as Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitched seven-hit ball and ocntributed a three-run homer. The Tigers annexed the second, 6-2.

Washington's scheduled doubleheader at Chicago was postponed.

The Little Rock Shomvaker had a 138 for the early rounds, slumped to a 73 in the morning round yesterday but came back with a 69 in the afternoon.

Hal Chase Fights For Life

Chase as a player. In recent years.

Four Hits By Jocha Pace Providents To Victory

Paced by Ev Jocha's four-for-four slugging, Mansfield Provident Loan girls scored an easy softball victory over Elyria Franks Bakery at Elyria yesterday 8 to 3.

Ev doubled in the first inning to drive in three runs, singled in the third, singled and scored in the fifth, and singled and scored again on Tip Tipul's double in the seventh.

Without her help the Providents put together four hits for three more runs in the fourth, the rally including singles by Whiteman, Schaefer and Herrick, and a double by Mary Bessemer.

Meanwhile Fran Knapp was turning in a neat job of mound work, limiting Elyria to four hits, all of them in the first two innings when the Bakers scored their three runs. And none of the four hits were good sound blows, coming on bunts and bad bounces in the infield.

Providents turned in two sparkling fielding plays, one when Schaefer snared a line drive in short center and threw to first for a double play, and the other when Holda deflected a hot bounder to Herrick who tossed to first for the out.

Tomorrow night the Providents play at Ashland.

Mansfield Dogs Win In Night, Day Field Tests.

Richland County Fish and Game association's double-header 'coon chase, held Saturday and Sunday, and the first of its kind ever held in the state, was declared an outstanding success today by association officers.

Most of the prizes went to dogs owned in the Mansfield area.

Black Rhythm, owned by Clyde Moore of Mansfield, took first tree in the Saturday night chase at Oak Park, with Happy Jack, owned by Stewart Plank of Columbus, second.

First line was won by Red Arrow, owned by Clyde Moore, and second was taken by Smoke Dog, owned by Hunt Brothers of Vermillion.

The Saturday night chase had an entry list of 82 dogs, while a large crowd stayed until the small hours of the morning to see the chase completed.

In the Sunday chase at the Beatly farm, west of Mansfield, there were 80 dogs competing.

Ohio Prince, owned by Roy Mets of Mansfield took first tree, and Happy Jack repeated in second place.

First line was won by Red Star, owned by Wayne Rowyer of Perrysville, and Black Rhythm was second.

BASEBALL RETURNS TO COOPERSTOWN

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y.—(AP)—American baseball returned to this small upstate New York town where it was born and cradled today as the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics prepared to clash in a major league exhibition on Doubleday field.

The game (2 p. m. EWT) is the second annual one played by major leaguers in tribute to Abner Doubleday, who in 1839 on a Cooperstown cow pasture organized the first baseball contest.

Redskins Move Into 2nd Spot

Last Inning Rallies Pay Indians Dividends.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The "ninth-inning" Indians are in second place in the American league with no chance of being dislodged for at least a day.

Cleveland swept a twin bill from Philadelphia yesterday, 4 to 3 and 4 to 2, while their rivals, the Boston Red Sox, lost two to Detroit to give the Tribe a half-game lead. The league is idle today so the Tribe will hold its coveted post at least another 24 hours.

Ninth-inning rallies and extra inning splurges seem to be the reason why Manager Lou Boudreau's boys have managed to stay in the top half of things in the junior baseball loop.

Almost once a week this season the Indians have exploded with a late rally which caught the opposition napping and gave the locals a surprise victory.

Exactly one third of the 15 games played during the recent home stand went into extra sessions, most of them because of late scoring flashes.

There were no extra frames yesterday, but the old ninth-inning outburst captured the first contest. Philadelphia had scored two runs in the third inning and another on Pete Suder's homer in the fourth, while the Tribe had tallied a lone marker in the sixth.

Came the ninth, and Les Fleming, the Tribe's leading regular with a batting average of .307, smashed a single to right center to send home Oris Hockett and Kenny Keltner with the tying runs.

A few seconds later, Pitcher Chubby Dean pinch batted for Ray Mack and drove one to center, plating Fleming with the winning tally.

In the second game the Indians were never headed. They scored a run in the third inning, and Philadelphia countered with a tally in the fourth. In the home half of the fourth the Tribe plated two markers on triples by Heath and Boudreau, and Mack's long fly.

Suder hit his second homer of the day to open the fifth frame, making the score 3 to 2 for the Tribe, but Weatherly and Hockett sent successive doubles to right field in the same inning for the final run, and Jim Bagby coasted to a 4-2 triumph, his 12th victory this year.

Bob Winbigler Hurls 3-Hit Victory For Travelers

Bob "Windy" Winbigler had the Bucyrus Moose "on the hip" yesterday, letting them down with three hits, and the Mansfield Travelers coasted to an easy 6-2 victory at the Fairground.

Doubles by Yonikus and Beatty helped the visitors to two runs in the sixth inning, but by that time the game was in the bag for the Travelers who crossed the platter three times in the fifth after scoring once in each of the two preceding frames.

"Peanuts" Musille, with two doubles in three trips to the dish, led a 12-hit attack for the Travelers, while Willard Lockhart had a single and double in four times up. Smith and Hamman each checked in with two safe blows.

* * *

Winbigler fanned 11 visitors and gave only one base on balls in a masterful mound turn, and the Bucyrus players agreed he was the fastest hurler they had faced this season.

Seven Teams Have Chance

American Association Stages Battle Royal.

(By Associated Press)

The battle royal in the American association continues with seven teams still clinging to pennant possibilities and all but last place St. Paul having excellent prospects of ending the season next month with a .500 or better percentage.

Seventh place Toledo, for instance, is just three games shy of a .500 rating and only seven games out of first place. Kansas City, in first place by a game and a half, has won only 11 more games that it has lost.

The Blues increased their league lead by a half game yesterday although Indianapolis held them to an even break in a double header, the day's only divided twin bill.

Milwaukee, a game out of first before yesterday's encounters, lost both to Louisville, 4-1 and 3-2, and fell to third place when Columbus won a pair from Minneapolis, 7-5 and 11-4. Toledo also swept its twin bill, defeating St. Paul, 6-2 and 8-6.

Kansas City turned back Indianapolis, 3-0 on Johnny Johnson's three hit pitching in the opened, but lost the second, 6-5.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Is it hot enough for you? . . . Well, football gets under way this week. . . . Most of the pro teams are starting to train; Lieut. Col. Bob Neyland's all-army players are heading for their New Haven, Conn., camp and the Texas high school all-star game and recruit roundup is scheduled for next Saturday at Abilene. . . . Just to show you how the fans go for different sports in different places, the same night they'll play that big all-star football game in Chicago, Indianapolis will put on an all-star basketball game between the pick of its 1942 high school grads and a Kentucky bunch.

THE ANSWER MEN

When Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns was soaked a $25 fine for a recent run-in with an ump he said he was tempted to pay it with a rubber check. . . . "Just so when Harridge notified me the check was bad I could say, 'Yeh, and it makes us even—so was the decision'." . . . And when someone asked old Satch Paige what kind of food made him so durable, he replied: "I'm on a strict diet—strictly fried foods, that's all I eats."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Gloria Callen and Ed Pope, the Yale splasher, are in the social swim together these days. . . . A Texas horseman, who doesn't want the boys making touches, tells that he has had a $20 straight bet on every horse Ben Jones has started this season and so far the profits are $1,600. . . . John C. Hoffman of the Chicago Times suggests Ted Lyons for manager of the White Sox "when the current succession of failures has come to a close."

Camp Roberts Has Grid Stars

CAMP ROBERTS, Cal.—(INS)—If the proposed Western Army football squads needs a corking good backfield, they will be found at Camp Roberts, is the claim of soldiers at this California replacement training center.

If the Chicago Bears, Washington Redskins, New York Giants or Green Bay Packers or other pro outfits expect to win any of the matches tentatively being arranged by Grantland Rice's War Football Fund, Inc., they'll have to be wary of the football material at Camp Roberts.

Having the backing of all the soldiers as candidates for the Western Army eleven are Second Lieutenants Marion Pugh and John Kimbrough. When the pair were attending Texas A. M. the two constituted the powerhouse of Pugh and Kimbrough—Pugh would call the signals and Kimbrough would lug the pigskin.

Other Camp Roberts men who would answer the prayers of any critical football coach include:

Lt. Claude Purkitt, Stanford; Corp. Melville Webb, Oklahoma; Lt. Alvin Collier, Santa Clara; Private first class Casey Moore, University of Southern California; Eugene Kasparovitch, Harvard and San Jose (Calif.); Bruce Waddel, Texas; Lloyd Le Clair, Oregon and Mississippi; Beryl Wright, Colorado State; Carl E. Keely, Ohio State; Lt. Ray Garamendi, Nevada.

Texas Aggies Rush To Army

Grid Stars Stampede Into Armed Service.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. —(INS)—"I'm not worrying about this conscription business. If such an emergency develops that my boys are needed, then football will become very unimportant to me."

That was Coach Homer Norton, head man of athletics at Texas A. & M. college, talking, and the remark was made to a reporter on Aug. 6, 1940.

Today that remark has become truly significant. The A. & M. campus has been a starting point for a virtual parade of athletic stars, and coaches too, into Uncle Sam's armed forces.

First to leave after the end of the 1941 season were Tackle Leonard Dicley and Fullback Dennis Andricks—both lettermen. Next went letterman Tackle Bob Tulis and letterman Wingback Tom Pickett.

Freshman football co-Coach Charlie Deware volunteered and was last reported a private in the infantry. Backfield Coach Marty Karow was commissioned a Navy lieutenant. End Coach J. W. (Dough) Rollins was recalled to active duty as an infantry captain. Right after him went Col. Frank Anderson, golf and cross-country coach who was figured on to take over the track team duties given up by Rollins.

Utay Hall, the dormitory assigned to the athletes, has been turned over to the Navy to house its personnel assigned to the college for training.

Since the 1940 interview the Aggies have won another conference football championship, and shared an additional title with S.M.U. Twenty-seven of the graduates have gone into the service as commissioned officers in the army or navy. A vast majority of the undergraduates remaining in college are members of the R.O.T.C. and are receiing training while continuing their studies which closely par

STOCK MARKET TRENDS PROVE WEE BIT FOGGY

Small Advances Balanced By Equally Small Declines Among Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The direction was a bit foggy in today's stock market proceedings.

Up a shade were United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Bethlehem, American Telephone and Youngstown Sheet. Small declines were recorded for Consolidated Edison, Loew's, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Steel and Reynolds Tobacco "B."

Boardrooms scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that the current supply of scrap was no larger than steelmaking requirements and in some instances had fallen short of full capacity. Practically no reserves, the publication added, were being laid down.

Studied for trend clues also was the estimate of the department of commerce that consumer spending had increased less rapidly than living costs and income. Comparing the first quarter of this year with that of 1941, living costs were up 8 per cent, income more than 7 per cent while average consumption expenditures increased hardly 2 per cent.

KILLED ON WAY TO BE MARRIED

Clevelander Dies, Fiancee Hurt After Early Morning Crash Near Gilead.

the truck with its load of tires over in the highway. The car was demolished, its top peeled back as if by a can opener.

Acting Coroner Frank Sweeney found Vargo dead when he arrived at the scene of the accident. Death was attributed by Sweeney to a broken neck. His body was removed to the Craven funeral home in Mt. Gilead.

Regaining consciousness at Mansfield General hospital this morning, Miss Mizaris told state highway patrolmen that the couple had been en route to West Virginia to be married today. She was sleeping when the crash occurred.

Cottrell, who was returning to his station at Scott Field, Ill., had been offered a lift by the couple in Ashland. He told patrolmen he had been sleeping in the rear seat of the club coupe when the accident happened.

Two Richland county youths were cut by flying glass yesterday afternoon when their car tipped over on a county road, seven miles north of Mansfield. They were the driver of the car, Jay Brinley, 16, of 634 Grant street, and his companion, Marian Clark, 17, of Mansfield R. D. 2. Patrolmen said Brinley lost control of his car on a gravel road. It ran into the ditch and turned over. They were treated at General hospital and released.

Charles Bermilin, 171 Ausdale avenue, is recovering in General hospital from head injuries suffered at 2 p. m. Sunday when his auto plowed into a parked car then skidden 100 feet into a telephone pole, breaking it off at its base.

Charles J. Welsh, 304 West Fourth street, was owner of the damaged parked car. The accident occurred in the 300-block on West Sixth street. Bermilin told police he apparently was asleep when the crash occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leake, 141 Chilton avenue, were injured Saturday in a collision with a truck on State Route 13 near Fitchville. Leake suffered chest injuries and a broken wrist and Mrs. Leake suffered a broken ankle and cuts and bruises. Both are in New London hospital.

In another accident near New London, Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Wagner and Miss Meda Jean Murdock, all of Dearborn, Mich., were injured when their automobile sideswiped a train at a crossing of U. S. Route 250. Mrs. Wagner suffered rib fractures, Wagner received scalp injuries and Miss Murdock suffered facial lacerations.

Mrs. Charles Bentler of near Cardington, was injured when an automobile driven by her husband, and another driven by Dr. Frank Hartsock, Morrow county health commissioner, collided one mile west of Edison yesterday. Bentler and Dr. Hartsock were not hurt.

MANSFIELDER SHIP VICTIM

A. A. Koller Perishes Aboard Vessel on Way Home From British Guiana.

Mansfield last March to enter service with the New York contracting company as a carpenter, and was sent to British Guiana. However the climate failed to agree with him and he was forced to return home, friends of the family said today.

Beside his widow, he is survived by a son, Arthur, jr., now in service with the U. S. army in French Caledonia, also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koller of Los Angeles, and a brother, Charles R. Koller, also of Los Angeles.

In the absence of the escort, Larry Hess of The News-Journal advertising staff, a former neighbor of Kollers, identified the body this morning.

Koller was born in Chicago Jan. 30, 1896, and came to Ohio six years ago and to Mansfield three years ago, and was employed at the Mansfield Printing company.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 at the Wappner Funeral home, conducted by Rev. Richard W. Taubenheim, pastor of Evangelical church. Burial will be made in Mansfield cemetery.

SLAIN IN GAME

Two Card Players Killed By Masked Gunman.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A masked gunman, firing through the open doorway of a midtown social hall, shot and killed two card players early today.

The victims were identified as Robert B. Greene, 40, and Morris Wolen, 44.

They were playing cards with four other men on the second floor of the Whitehouse Bridge association when the gunman appeared, fired five or six shots in succession, and escaped.

Police identified Greene as a Broadway betting commissioner and former associate of Sam Boston, a gambler linked with the unsolved Arnold Rothstein killing. Wolen also was known as Morris (Dimples) Wolensky.

Only 26 cases of smallpox were recorded in Canada in 1941, all but one appearing in the province of Saskatchewan.

RED DEFENSES SLOW UP NAZI CAUCASUS DRIVE

Germans Admit Soviets Make Counter-Attacks; Russians Fight 'Chutists.

this account of the fight in the other key salients:

"In the Tsimlyansk area (midway between Salsk and Stalingrad) an attack by two enemy infantry battalions was repulsed.

"In the Kletskaya area the Germans attacked in a number of sectors with infantry and tanks supported by aircraft which bombed Soviet troop positions. Our troops firmly withstood the enemy's pressure and flung them back to their original positions."

The Germans were dropping parachutists in some key regions across the Don and in addition the Russians reported finding Nazi spies by the dozens operating in that area. Forty-five were executed in one sector.

Presumably these were fifth columnists. It was not clear immediately from what group of the Soviet peoples they had been recruited. However, large German settlements had developed before the war in the Volga area, a large section some 150 miles north and northeast of Stalingrad. Germans in this area were understood to have been rounded up and moved back from the potential battle area soon after the war started.

Moscow newspapers gave increasing space to demands for a second front to ease the strain on the Red army. The Communist party newspaper Pravda, declaring that "the danger in the south is more acute," said "the enemy is draining Germany and German-occupied countries to send all reserves into the fight."

British military quarters said in London that 16 Nazi divisions had been transferred from France and the low countries to the Russian front, but added that this did not necessarily indicate a weakening of Germany's defenses to the west since the transferred troops had been replaced by other units.

These sources estimated that the Germans now have about 26 divisions (260,000 to 390,000 men) in France, Belgium and the Netherlands, exclusive of the troops in Norway.

In the air war across the English channel, one northeastern English coast town was raided by daylight after German bombers made scattered overnight attacks on the industrial Midlands and East Anglia.

Unfavorable weather over the continent interrupted the RAF's pounding of Germany. Spitfires attacked railway targets and barges in the low countries yesterday, however, after another fight between British and German torpedo boats off Cherbourg. The British said they raced in under the harbor defenses, sank two German boats and got away while the Nazis fired upon their own craft in the excitement.

On the Egyptian front, land operations were limited to patrol skirmishes and artillery fire but, overhead, Allied fighters and bombers kept up their steady bombing and machine-gunning of the Axis communications and bases of supply.

County Launches Most Intensive Scrap Iron Drive

trucks, Stough said, while the other materials must be taken to junk dealers.

Persons selling junk either to the collectors or dealers will get receipts at the time of the sale and later will receive checks from the War Production Board.

Conducted in connection with the scrap drive will be a campaign for waste fats from the kitchen to provide glycerine for the manufacture of munitions.

Mrs. Gayle E. Owens, Mansfield, chairman of the drive, appealed to housewives to sell their waste meat fryings and vegetable fats to their neighborhood meat dealer who will pay four cents a pound for fats.

The fats should be in quantities of at least a pound and they should be strained and placed in large-mouthed tin containers, Mrs. Owings said.

Gasoline filling stations of the Standard Oil company will assist in the scrap drive, receiving old metals and rubber to be shipped to reclaiming plants, according to A. A. Stambaugh, company vice president.

ROOSEVELT GETS SABOTEUR CASE

Military Commission Reports Its Verdict, Sentence To President Today.

lasted only two minutes. This indicated that the commission simply told the prosecution and defense of the verdict in order to give the attorneys for both sides an opportunity to file briefs or pleas of leniency with Mr. Roosevelt.

Those who have followed progress of the trial since its inception were puzzled over the wording of the commission statement. It was noted that the commission used the words "the findings and sentence."

This raised the possibility that the commission may have not found all of the eight saboteurs guilty of charges that would carry the death penalty. There has been persistent reports two and possibly three of the saboteurs may get off with life sentence or 30 year prison terms.

The president is the final court of appeal in the case. His powers to try the eight saboteurs before a military commission and to act himself as a court of appeal were upheld by a United States supreme court decision last week.

It will be up to the commission to sign the death wararnts for the saboteurs.

bomber also was reported destroyed. Allied losses were given as two fighters and one bomber.

Prior to this, Allied bombers made a night attack on the Japanese bases at Lae and nearby Salamaua, shooting down one enemy plane and scoring hits on an airdrome and anti-aircraft positions, the bulletin said.

Throw Newest Planes Against U. S. In China

BULLETIN

CHUNGKING—(AP)—A second big air battle for control of the skies over China was reported fought today over Hengyang air base.

CHUNGKING—(AP)—The scale of recent Japanese attacks on the United States army airdrome at Hengyang indicates that the enemy assembled a special force of improved fighter planes and highly trained pilots for the express purpose of trying to wipe out this American output in Hunan province, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's headquarters said today.

A total of 119 Japanese planes participated in a 36-hour attack on the airfield which began before daylight last Thursday, a communique said.

The bulletin confirmed previous official reports that 17 of the attacking planes had been shot down and that at least four more probably were destroyed.

In land fighting, Central News, a Chungking government agency, reported recapture of Tsingtien in Chekiang province on July 29 after the town had been occupied for 24 hours by the Japanese. This would be the fourth time that the town has changed hands.
